

When the meetings adjourn, Utah beckons.

No matter the makeup of your group, you'll find endless recreation and entertainment opportunities at the University of Utah. From mountain bike trails that start out your back door to skiing the Greatest Snow on Earth; from campus museums to downtown nightlife; from workout facilities to indoor tennis; your group won't hurt for options. Equipment? No problem. The U's Campus Recreation program rents most everything you'll need. Plus, we'll arrange temporary memberships for all kinds of campus recreation and workout facilities. Adjacent to campus is the Salt Lake City Sports Complex with its two Olympic-size ice sheets, indoor and outdoor pools, and fitness facilities, too. And since the mass transit TRAX light rail stops just steps from your room, everything Salt Lake City has to offer is only minutes away.

How to get here

From the Airport:

Take I-80 eastbound to the City Center exit. Head east on 600 South to State Street, turn left to 400 South, then right. On 400 South, climb the hill up past the football stadium to Wasatch Boulevard. Turn left. Stay on Wasatch Boulevard as it bends right and climbs toward the hospitals. The Guest House is your first right turn, with registration services and the Peterson Heritage Center less than one block away.

From Downtown Salt Lake City:

Take the TRAX University Line eastbound. Get off at the Fort Douglas stop. The Guest House is just east of that stop, over the footbridge. Numerous UTA bus lines also run from downtown to the U.

Conference Housing

Thanks to our Conference Housing Program, groups from all over the world choose the University of Utah for their conferences. It's easy to see why. Set on the east bench overlooking the Salt Lake Valley, backed by the dramatic mountains of the Wasatch Range, the U's Conference Housing is unmatched in its beautiful location, yet is also incredibly convenient and accessible.

Originally built as the Athletes' Village for the 2002 Olympic Winter Games, our housing options range from traditional hotel style to suite-style residence halls and apartments.

Beyond housing, we take pride in planning every aspect of your conference. Special events and dining options are no problem, either.

Accommodations

The University Guest House

This 134-room hotel features spectacular views of the Salt Lake Valley and surrounding campus. Rooms have a single king or two queen-size beds, refrigerator, coffee maker, microwave, cable TV, iron & board, hair dryer, voicemail, and high-speed Internet access. A limited number of suites are also available. Continental breakfast is included. Hotel amenities include free parking, free local phone calls, convenience store, fitness room, laundry facilities, ice, and soda machines. The Guest House is also adjacent to a TRAX mass transit train station and campus shuttle stop. These accommodations are available year-round.

Heritage Commons Residence Halls

Completed in the fall of 2000, Heritage Commons was the heart of the 2002 Olympic Winter Games, the Athletes' Village. What then housed Olympians now houses U of U students, in style. Consisting of 1,700 residence hall beds all accommodations are suite style. Double suites contain two bedrooms, each with two twin beds and a shared bath. Single suites contain two bedrooms,

Youth Conferences

There's something extra special about coming to a youth conference at the University of Utah. From staying in the university residence halls, to utilizing the toys of Campus Recreation Services, to just hanging around the beautiful campus, it's fun for youth to spend time here. We have meal plans, meeting and devotional space, and endless ideas for free-time activities. Whether your youth conference runs from one to five days or longer, we can handle all the details. We can book the use of campus buildings and field space, arrange side trips to area attractions, even set up a dance in the Union Ballroom! And don't forget that Salt Lake's downtown attractions are just a short TRAX ride away from our conference housing.

Dining

Your culinary choices won't be starved when you hold your conference at the U. In fact, University Dining Services was the recipient of the National Restaurant Association 2001 Center of Excellence award. On campus you have two options:

- Located in the center of the residence halls is the Chase N. Peterson Heritage Center. Open seven days a week, the diverse selection is "all you care to eat" style.
- At the center of campus, the A. Ray Olpin Union offers food-court style dining on a retail basis.

Catering

If you'd rather we bring the food to you, we offer catering services in all of our meeting spaces. Or, we're happy to plan tasty barbecues, banquets, boxed lunches, or simple refreshment breaks. The choice is yours. Flexible meal plans are available for camps and meeting attendees, but must be consistent for all group members.
